

Are you our next Welsh-speaking research associate?

Pye Tait Consulting is a social research agency with a focus on providing answers to our client's big questions. From labour market intelligence studies to evaluations, and from skills research to analysing consultation responses, we have been working extensively for predominantly public and third sector clients for almost 35 years.

Many of our research projects have sought responses from individuals in Wales, ranging from business leaders to members of the public, and using a range of methodologies such as phone/online surveying, in-depth interviewing and virtual focus groups.

We are now seeking one or more research associates to join our talent pool who have a passion for research and are fluent in spoken and written Welsh.

From time to time this may involve activities such as (but not necessarily limited to):

- Conducting ad hoc research interviews in Welsh then writing up and supplying us with notes in English
- Co-facilitating virtual meetings or focus groups where English/Welsh translations may be needed
- Translating research tools from English to Welsh and responses from Welsh to English.

Please note that as part of an associate arrangement, a minimum amount of work cannot be guaranteed.

Essential

- Educated to at least degree level
- Fluent in written and spoken Welsh
- Experienced in conducting research

Desirable

- Currently self-employed as a research associate, with a visible track record

If you think you fit the bill, please apply by sending your CV and a suitable cover letter (in English) to: careers@pyetait.com
